Annette Searfoss, First Start Partnership-2 Generational Approach	Annette Searfoss, CEO of First Start Partnership and Co-chair with Stacie Horvath for Hope from the Start presented about the 2-Generational Approach. She gave background information on what a family center is, their new initiative, and how to work together to make a collective impact. A PA Family Center focuses on providing services to help children and their families become healthy, safe and self-sufficient. Their initiative primarily focuses on providing early childhood education services and support to parents and their young children, prenatal through age five, in order to prevent child abuse and neglect prior to, or at the beginning of, involvement with a County Children and Youth Agency. Hope from the Start's purpose is to enable and empower families to foster growth in themselves and their children emotionally, socially, physically and academically through building hope and resiliency with trusting community support. She reviewed how 2-generation approaches put the whole family on a path to economic security. First Start has a new partnership with Shippensburg University to focus on postsecondary and employment pathways. First Start believes this is a great time to start funding the initiative due to the data currently being used, such as the PA Reach and Risk Report (2016-2017), as well as Franklin County and Lancaster County having the lowest percentage of children served by Direct Impact programs (22.7%). Family Center and Parent Education work groups in Hope from the Start are working to pilot a Family Center in Waynesboro. They will be able to serve 35 children and their families through the targeted home-visiting model. Annette shared that they are searching for an ideal location for the Family Center, preferably a central location so as not to cater to only one specific area. Annette shared that there is a large list of organizations involved, including Keystone Health, WellSpan Summit Health, County Services, and Children and Youth. She also shared that they have enough money in their budget for their home visits but are still looking for additional funding. Joanne has also opened Keystone offices to have Hope From the Start staff sit in the waiting rooms and inform patients about their services.
CHNA Findings	Ann presented a PowerPoint to the committee about the CHNA Findings

CHNA Priorities	and Priorities. She shared the cover page that focuses on the social determinants of health, which is of a park bench where Mike Worden (a homeless man who passed away of a stroke) spent the majority of his time. A dedication to him will be placed on the inside cover. She shared the scatter plot that Berwood put together based off the group activity the committee participated in in the previous meeting. The most important priorities included education, social determinants, obesity, and access to care. Ann then reviewed the Executive Summary that was drafted for the CHNA, particularly the Health Priorities listed on page 5. She focused on a model that portrayed how to achieve equity at every level. A discussion was held about Complex System Science; Ann passed out a paper with an Obesity System Map that Berwood shared with Ann and Noel. Ann shared ETR’s Health Equity Framework and the HI-5 (Health Impact in 5 Years). A discussion was held about actions being taken for Motorcycle Injury Prevention, Tobacco Control Interventions, Access to Clean Syringes, and Pricing Strategies for Alcohol Products amongst other issues. The committee also discussed public health interventions for issues such as water fluoridation, earned income tax credits, home improvement loans and grants, clean diesel bus fleets, and early childhood education. Noel shared that invitations have been sent out to policy makers and senators for the Public Release Event on June 5th. Berwood will be doing his presentation on the CHNA findings, Beth Toner will speak about the culture of health and will also facilitate a workshop based on priority areas provided to her. A panel will speak about culture and systems change in the afternoon. Robert Stephens, the Public Health Officer from Garrett County, Maryland, has confirmed his attendance; Noel is also reaching out to Michael Foley, part of the Lancaster Coalition to End Homelessness. A discussion was held about how exactly to have money as a driver in the community, as well as possibilities to keep attendees of the June 5th event engaged. Noel shared that an education piece is being created for the event, and the education department will also be filming that day.
